The Fusionists, on their part, are elated at the failure of the caucus to turn out the delegates from Norfolk. county. They declare that it would be a calamity to the county to have its representatives debarred from the conferences of the party. This would mean, they declare, that the influence of Messrs. Parker and Owens would be nil, and that the county would suffer in all public matters.

"However," said one of the Fusionists to-day, "there appears to be no reason, in view of last night's action by the caucus, to fear that it will be the case. The delegates from Norfolk county, I believe, are firmly ensounced in their seats in the caucus, and there will be little more heard of the matter, save from Straightout sources.

the Revolution and Civil Wars, when this was the tramping ground of contending armies.

Farming is at a standstill on account of the long winter. Very little land prowed as yet for spring planting—something unusual for this section. Some fields of corn are yet ungathered. Fish are scarce and bringing high prices in the markets—an indication of "hard times a-coming," so the knowing ones say.

There is no apparent suffering among the game birds. They get plenty of food around the barns and feeding pens. Geese and ducks have been forced by the ice to warmer climes.

"The Farmer's Rest! plantation, near Stirgeon Point, was recently sold by the William M. Everat's estate to Mr. Thomas I. Ammmon, now of Hampton, Va., but formerly of this county.

The court took the cases under advisement.

A SHOE FACTORY.

Ettrick Cotton Mills Not Likely to Resume Again.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)

ETTRICK, VA., Feb. 3.—It seems now that the cotton mill at this place will not be used any more as a cotton mill, as cotton is likely to stay high and the practor of cloth low, so it is reported that the mill will within the present year be converted into a boot and shoe factory. There is already a large tannery in operation just over the river, on the Petersburg side, and the prospects are for a shoe factory in the near future.

The cotton mills at Battersea and at Matoaca are hanging on yet and running as regularly as the hard weather will allow, but it is fully expected that unless cotton comes down in price very soon that they will either suspend entirely or run on short time, or maybe out wages. The mill at Swift Creek, which weaves no cloths of any kind, but manufactures knitting yarns exclusively, will very probably pull through, as they are advertising for hands and making ready to enlarge the plant.

being between Richmond and Washington. The accident occurred near Accoting, about twenty miles from Washington. Mr.
England was working underneath the engine of his train, when another train backed into it, causing the engine and five or six cars to pass over his left ankle. The leg was amputated a little over the ankle. Later reports say that Mr. England is getting along splendidly, and will be able to return to his home in a few weeks. Mr. England's wife is now in Washington, where she can visit her husband at the hospital. Mr. England is well known in this section of the country.

BLUE RIDGE SPRINGS, VA., Feb. 3.—
While a heavy double-header train was pulling the heavy grade here Monday, with a pusher behind, Mrs. Reily rushed into the counting room of Mr. Marshall Riely's store and exclaimed:

"Oh. Mr. Riely, do stop the train! A child is swinging between the cars, apparently injured!"
All rushed out, and as the rear engine moved by the distress signal was given, and the engineer signalled to the front engine for brakes.

When the train stopped, Warren Giles, the twolve-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Giles, dropped from the train, with one foot torn off and the other mangled. The little fellow had wonderful nervo, for he did not whimper, but in clear accents told of his misfortune.

He had been carried over 300 yards in this crushed condition, yet did not lose his grip or presence of mind, and would have been carried over the summit, where the train goes down grade at speed, and finally fallen and been ground to atoms but for the timely notice of Mrs. Riely.

The last report was that the little fellow was doing as well as could be expected.
